LAST DAY FOR FILING SUITS

NUMBER OF NEW CASES FOR APRIL TERM OF COURT.

OIL MAN IS SUED

Ernest C. Moore Asks $250 From John H. Gray—New Development in McGary Will Litigation.

The last day of service on suits for trial at the April term of Circuit Court saw a number of new cases filed today with Circuit Clerk Virgil Rathbun.

A new development in the will contest of Mary L. Maher, Claretta Meyers, Gertrude Dalrymple and Bernard McGarey, children of the late John McGarey, is an appeal from Probate Court, filed by Mrs. Rebecca McGarey, the widow, and another son, Dennis J. McGarey, protesting an order suspending Mrs. McGarey as executrix of the will.

Appointment of an administrator pendente lite for the McGarey estate, to take charge of and administer the estate during the pendency of the will contest, was asked by the children bringing the contest. Jesse F. Robertson, probate judge, granted this request, finding that Mrs. McGarey, nominated as executrix by the will, has a "beneficial interest in the estate adverse to the contestants."

Concealment Charged.

The petitioners further charged that Mrs. McGarey knew at the time of the death of her husband that he had "attempted to make a will" and after the "purported execution thereof" she acquired possession of the document and remained in the possession of it until January 23, 1926, and "during all of that time concealed the existence of said instrument from petitioners."

Judge Robertson appointed J. F. Colby, Clarence Merrigan and A. K. Frank as witnesses and appraisers to aid Mr. Williams in making an inventory and appraisement of the property of the McGarey estate.

McCaffrey & Cook are attorneys for the petitioners and Shinabargar, Blagg & Ellison for Mrs. McGarey and the one son.

Oil Man Sued for $250.

Ernest C. Moore, in a suit again John H. Gray, Maryville oil man, asks $250 for alleged services in aiding Gray to obtain a gasoline contract in 1924 with Starr, Young and Wright, contractors who held a contract with the Missouri Highway Commission for the graveling of a portion of State highway No. 18, between Maryville and Burlington Junction.

Moore states in his petition that the contracting firm needed a large amount of gasoline for the operation of the trucks in which the gravel was hauled and for other machinery. Gray, he says, offered him a commission of ½ cent a gallon if he would assist in the securing of a gasoline contract. This he did, according to his petition, and Gray secured the gasoline contract, selling the contractors 50,000 gallons. On this amount he claims a commission of $250 and costs of his suit.

Another Oil Suit.

Another suit involving an oil dealer has been brought by H. H. Mutz against Dan Snoderly. The former asks $175.70 for gasoline, lubricating oil and kerosene he declares he furnished Snoderly during last year. He also asks for interest on the amount from December 29, 1925, at 6 per cent.

W. A. Tindall is suing Florence Shullenberger on a contract said to have been made on July 9 last year for the installation of a heating system in the Shullenberger home. He asks $414.79 and costs.

L. Shonesy asks judgment against Allie R. and Jessie L. Bradley on a note for $670, made February 9, 1925, due in one year and bearing 8 per cent interest. He also asks for an attorney fee of $75 and costs.

Property Seized Illegally?

Roy Miller asks a judgment of $2,500 against Annie O'Howell, alleging that without first securing a judgment or a writ of attachment or taking any other legal action, she caused the sheriffs of Nodaway and Worth counties to seize certain property of Miller's, including $678.74 deposited in the Farmers Bank of Parnell, one team of horses, a set of harness, wagon, plows, and other personal property, all of the value of $1,200.

Miller charges that besides being deprived of the use of his property he was compelled to borrow money to pay an obligation that he had attempted to pay by check drawn upon his bank account.

New Christian Church Voted at Chillicothe

Edifice To Cost $75,000 And Will Be Built In Immediate Future, According To Congregation's Action.

Chillicothe, Mo., March 13.—The First Christian Church of this city will erect a $75,000 new church building in the immediate future. At an all-day meeting of the church membership last Sunday $53,000 was pledged towards the building fund. Plans are in the hands of R. Warren Roberts, a local architect, and, as soon as his work is completed, the structure will be begun. The present church building has proved inadequate to house the membership for several years, and a temporary wooden tabernacle was built three years ago to carry on part of the church activities.

Industrial Accidents Is Cause for Alarm

Secretary of Labor Davis to Summon Conference of Leaders to Discuss Means of Preventing Loss

Washington, March 13—Leaders in industries in the United States will be brought to Washington this summer to participate in a "prevention-of-industrial-accidents conference," Secretary of Labor Davis announced today.

Davis said the experts of the bureau of labor statistics had estimated the number of fatalities annually in industrial accidents at about 21,000, although have placed the number as high as $35,000.

"Such information as we have indicates there are 2,453,418 industrial accidents anually with a resulting wage loss of $1,022,264,886," he continued. "American people are entitled to know exactly what price they pay in life and limb for our industrial property."

Washington, March 13.—The Senate election sub-committee, which has considered the Brookhart-Steck Senatorial contest for two years, will file a report to the full committee by Wednesday, it was announced this afternoon by Senator Ernst, Republican of Kentucky, chairman.

Reports prevailed that the sub-committee would recommend the seating of Daniel F. Steck, Democrat, over Smith W. Brookhart, Republican insurgent, but the members declined to reveal what the verdict will be.

AUTO PLATES STILL ON SALE

MORE THAN 4,000 ISSUED SINCE FEBRUARY 1.

ATCHISON IS IN LEAD

More Plates Sold To Motorists There Than In Any Other County, Outside Of Nodaway.

More than four thousand state automobile licenses have been isued by the Maryville Chamber of Commerce this year, according to D. A. Caldwell, secretary, in charge of distribution.

Outside of Nodaway County, Atchison leads the list with 305 plates. Worth is second with 128, and Gentry third with 79. Motorists from Andrew County bought fifty-six state licenses. Forty were sold to Holt County residents and other counties represented in the sales were: Buchanan, 7; Harrison, 3; St. Louis, 3; DeKalb, 2; Clinton, Daviess, Jackson, Wright, Caldwell, Putnam, Cass and Henry, one each.

Of the total number of licenses issued up to today, owners of automobiles and trucks outside of Nodaway County purchased 621 tags, or 15.5 per cent.

According to a survey made by Mr. Caldwell, four out of every one hundred persons applying for licenses have two or more cars.

Licenses have been sold for two hundred new cars and three hundred second-hand cars, which the owners purchased recently.

The Chamber of Commerce will continue to sell state automobile licenses. However, all owners of automobiles or trucks without the 1926 licenses are subject to arrest, if the vehicles are used.

Defeats Coolidge on Judgeship Nomination

McCamant Of Oregon, Who Started President On National Career, Rejected By Senate Committee.

Washington, March 13.—President Coolidge lost ground yesterday in his battle for senate confirmation of a judicial appointment for Wallace McCamant of Oregon, who launched the chief executive on his national political career by placing his name in nomination for the vice presidency in 1920.

With three members yet to be heard from, the senate judiciary committee voted 10 to 3 against a favorable report on the nomination of McCamant, who now is serving on the Ninth circuit bench under a recess appointment made last summer. Of the three committee members yet to vote, one is certain to cast his ballot against confirmation.

With such an overwhelming vote in the committee, administration leaders generally conceded that there was little hope that the senate would act favorably. Some have suggested that the president withdraw the nomination, but the White House has announced that Mr. Coolidge will insist on senate action.

Albert Kuchs' Memory Cost Him $14.15 Today

Albert Kuchs today paid a fine and costs amounting to $14.15 in Judge Warren L. Johnson's court for neglecting to remember that 1926 automobile licenses were being sold directly above his store.

ROSENDALE TO FINAL GAME

WINS FROM FILLMORE 25 TO 14 THIS AFTERNOON.

MAKES RALLY GOOD

Gets Slow Start—Maryville Wins From Chillicothe Last Night 23 to 13.

Bulletin.

At the end of the first half of the Maryville-Cameron game Maryville led 24-7.

Results Last Night.

Maryville, 23; Chillicothe, 13.
Cameron, 28; Burlington Junction, 13.
Fillmore, 22; Barnard, 10.
Rosendale, 36; Holt 11.

Results Late Yesterday Afternoon.

Holt, 30; Altamont, 18.
Chillicothe, 25; Grant City, 12.

Rosendale won the championship of Class B in the Northwest Missouri High School Basketball Tournament by defeating Fillmore this afternoon 25 to 14. It was a hard fought game. Fillmore was scheduled to be easy meat for the men of Coach Croy, but such was not the case. For better than a half she made things more than uneasy for the Red and White, and then was defeated only after a brave struggle.

The Maryville-Cameron game got underway about 3:45 o'clock this afternoon. The winner of this game will play Rosendale for the grand championship tonight.

A consolation game between Fillmore and the loser of the Maryville-Cameron game will start at 7:30 o'clock tonight. The grand championship game will start immediately afterward.

Truly, the Fillmore team played over its head, if other games of the tournament may be regarded as a criterion, but at that an enjoyable game was furnished.

The score at the end of the first half was 8 to 6 in favor of Fillmore. At the end of the first quarter it was tied, 3 to 3.

A large delegation of Rosendale and Fillmore people was in the gymnasium long before 2:30 o'clock, when the championship game started. Tonight, the two center sections on the east side of the gymnasium will be reserved for Rosendale rooters.

Rosendale was the first to score, after 2 minutes and 10 seconds of playing. G. Max, Rosendale guard, was fouled and made the shot. Ellison of Fillmore evened the count a moment later, and then Max shot a nice field goal from the sideline.

All through the first half Rosendale seemed dazed by the fact that Fillmore was keeping them from scoring. The Fillmore offense and defense alike centered around Davis, forward and captain, who seemed to be tiring of bearing the brunt when the timer's gun announced the half.

The second half was 5 minutes and 10 seconds old before Rosendale went into the lead, when Mackey, Rosendale forward played a tip-in under the basket to give his team a 12-11 lead. Then Finley, forward, increased the margin by a similar play. Mackey shot from near the foul line to make Rosendale's total 16 points, and then Captain Davis brought the Fillmore score to 13. Then the quarter ended.

The last quarter was more or less all Rosendale. The victors climbed steadily, and, with the period only half over, led by 8 points, 22 to 14.

The game was replete with fouls which were evenly divided. Seventeen times the referees were forced to penalize the players. Lance, Fillmore player, was taken out in the last minute of play on personal fouls.

Four teams battled their way into the finals of the tournament in as many games last night. Cameron opened the evening by winning over Burlington Junction, 28 to 13. Maryville became the other Class A finalist by defeating Chillicothe, 23 to 13. In Class B, Fillmore won from Barnard, 22 to 10, and Rosendale defeated Holt, 36 to 11.

Maryville won her way into the finals without playing one outstanding game. All through the tournament the locals played far below their previous standard. There was none of the flashy basketball which local fans have seen on the M. H. S. court this year. The Maryville team played just well enough to win, and that was all.

Last night, Chillicothe opened the game in a smashing fashion, and led at the end of the first quarter, 4 to 3. The Spoofhounds got under way a bit in the second period and at the half

LEAGUE HOPES ARE BRIGHTER

GERMAN DELEGATES WILL NOT OPPOSE SEAT FOR POLAND.

SWEDEN WOULD AID

Will Attempt to Break Deadlock by Offering to Give Up Temporary Seat in Council to Poland.

Geneva, March 13.—Prospects for an early compromise of the League of Nations dispute were seen tonight when it became known that the German delegation would not oppose Poland being elected to a non-permanent seat in the Council if such a seat were vacated by Sweden.

"The German delegates do not intend to quit the conference before arriving at an equitable solution," a member of the German commission said.

Geneva, March 13.—Sweden, after having been denounced for its intransigient attitude in the League crisis, came forward today prepared to make a sacrifice of its own preference in order to save the League of Nations.

Sweden, it is reported, will attempt to break the League deadlock by offering to give up her temporary seat in the Council of the League of Nations to Poland.

Geneva, March 13.—Members of the Council of the League today designated Dr. Benes, Czecho-Slovakia foreign minister, and Viscount Ishii to investigate the possibility of a compromise, based upon the proposal made by Sweden through Dr. Unden, Swedish delegate.

Dr. Unden, who stood steadfast in his opposition to the expansion of the League Council and has opposed the admission of any nation other than Germany to the Council, will initiate another move to make a final attempt at settlement.

Geneva, March 12.—Germany alone can save the League and Locarno.

This is the substance of well-informed opinions today at Geneva, where the struggle for seats in the Council of the League of Nations has reached its eleventh hour.

Frantic but virtually helpless last-minute efforts to find another ground for compromise began this morning. At the headquarters of the League delegations, these efforts were denounced. M. Briand and Austen Chamberlain both made claims today they have gone to their limit in making concessions.

Geneva, March 13.—Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign secretary, indicated his belief in a confidential talk with the British newspaper men early this morning that the crisis over the question of increasing the number of League of Nations council seats has reached the proportions of a disaster, with paralyzation of the atmosphere which was created by the Locarno accords.

Sir Austen announced that it was useless to continue the conversations with the Germans, because he was convinced they would be fruitless. Hence, it had been decided to turn the whole problem over to the council of the League of Nations. This would take it out of the hands of the representatives of the countries who signed the Locarno pacts and who have been meeting throughout the week in an effort to reach a solution of diffieulty brought on by the demands of Poland, Spain and Brazil, for seats on the council and the stand taken by Germany that she must enter the council alone at the present time.

The British foreign secretary declared he had been hopeful Friday morning but that after he had received a communication from the German chancellor, Dr. Luther, rejecting the allied proposal, he felt certain of the futility of a further meeting between the Rhine pact signatories. This proposal, described by Sir Austen as embodying extreme concessions, provided that Poland should be given a non-permanent seat on the council.

"We are faced with a real tragedy," said Sir Austen, "and it is impossible to predict what the solution will be. The tragedy is that Germany has done this thing."

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Morrison of Portland, Ore., arrived Thursday evening to visit Mr. Morrison's mother Mrs. Jacob Morrison of Savannah, and his sister, Mrs. Charles Moore, and family, at Burlington Junction.

To Investigate St. Louis Klan Report

Dispatches Say that Members There Threatened With Publicity Unless They Pay Dues.

Kansas City, March 13.—An investigation of reports that the St. Louis chapter of the Ku Klux Klan had resorted to threats to force its members to pay dues was begun here today by Dr. William M. Campbell of St. Louis, grand dragon of Missouri. In a telegram to the Kansas City Journal-Post, Dr. Campbell said he did not believe the report to be true but it will be investigated.

The telegram refers to a dispatch printed here under a St. Louis dateline saying that St. Louis newspapers were carrying advertisements instructing members to pay their dues or have their names published.

TO JAIL FOR ESCAPE PLOT

WALKER DREDGE PLEADS GUILTY—GETS ONE YEAR.

SCHOOL CASE DECIDED

Conception Junction Writ of Prohibition Made Permanent—Two Other Jail Sentences Assessed.

At a short session of the Circuit Court today, Walker Dredge, accused of furnishing tools to aid in the escape of a prisoner from the county jail, pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to serve one year in the county jail.

Dredge was charged with furnishing saws to Merle Fuchs, a trusty in the county jail, who was to give them to Paul Johnson, another prisoner. Johnson has been transferred to Holt County awaiting trial on a felony charge there. Fuchs had been paroled before the plot was discovered and his parole has been revoked.

Robert Moore, who was arrested at Conception Junction by Deputy Sheriff Gabe Purcell about three weeks ago when he was found with a suit case containing ten quarts of corn whiskey, also pleaded guilty and was fined $500 and senteneed to serve six months in the county jail.

Peace Disturber to Jail.

Glenn Clark, charged with disturbing the peace of a family, as the result of a disturbance in the Sisney restaurant at Hopkins on March 7, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and serve thirty days in the county jail.

Grant Kelly, who was arrested in July, 1925 and senteneed to pay a fine of $500 and to serve six months in jail, was paroled on payment of costs and granted a stay of execution on the costs for ninety days. He had been in jail continuously since his arrest and had served more than the period of his jail sentence.

Mrs. Garnett Watt was granted a divorce from Jesse Watt and custody of two minor daughters. Mrs. Watt filed her suit this morning and the defendant consented to immediate trial. They were married October 9, 1909, and abandonment was given as the ground for divorce.

Annexation Prohibited.

The annexation of school district No. 188 to District No. 125, commonly known as Conception Junction school district, was prohibited under a decree handed down by Judge John M. Dawson, who held that the Nodaway County Court had no jurisdiction on a petition asking for such annexation.

This case has been pending for some time. It had been argued by the attorneys on each side and Judge Dawson had taken it under advisement.

On July 2, 1925, a petition was filed with the county clerk asking that the territory embraced in District No. 188 be annexed to the Conception Junction district, alleging that the territory was inorganized, that there were fewer than twenty children of school age in the territory, that the district failed to provide for an eight-months school during the preceding year, that a levy of 40 cents would have been sufficient to enable the district to have that long a term of school; that no provision was made for the children of the district to attend the school or schools of any adjoining district; and that the Conception Junction district adjoined the unorganized teritory and was the nearest and most available school district.

This petition was signed by Chris Abel, L. S. Dennis, R. W. McPeek, T. A. Luke, James C. Donaldson, A. M.

PROHIBITON TO BE BIG ISSUE

WETS HOPE FOR SOME ACTION BY CONGRESS IN 1928.

ASSAULT IS GREATEST

Solons Are Being Flooded With Inquiries From "Back Home" Asking What It's All About.

Washington, March 13.—Prohibition is the big issue of 1928. This is the vision and goal of the modificationists in the present session of Congress who are daily engaged in controversies with dry leaders regarding the effect of the Volstead law.

Neither the Sixty-ninth Congress now sitting nor the Seventieth about to be elected, but the Seventy-first, to be elected in November, 1928, is looked to by the wets as the most crucial point in their present struggle.

Moreover, they believe they have more than a fair chance of success and to that end the agitation will be kept constantly alive in this and the next Congress.

The assault on the Volstead law and the denunciation of existing conditions, now almost daily occurrences on Capitol Hill, transcends anything seen in Congress in the six years of Constitutional drought.

Members of Congress are being flooded with inquiries from "back home," asking what it all means. The drys are answering that it is nothing but wet propaganda. The enthusiastic wets are replying that it means sentiment is turning and in the next Congress "we will get action."

Monroe County Bank Closed by Directors

Tenth Failure Since January 1 and Seventh One This Month.—Frozen Assets Believed Cause.

Jefferson City, March 13.—The old bank of Stoutsville, Monroe County, with resources of $199,000 was closed today by the board of directors, making the tenth failure in the state since January 1. It was the seventh one to fail this month.

State Finance Commissioner C. E. French was advised of the action of the board of directors in a telegram received this morning. Frozen assets are thought to have caused the failure.

The bank had $20,000 capital, $10,000 surplus, $123,000 deposits, and $171,000 loans, according to its report of December 31.

J. P. Clapper is president and J. H. Booley cashier of the defunct institution. A state examiner has been sent to Stoutsville to take charge of the assets of the bank.

GOVERNMENT THRIFT.

Congressman Martin L. Davey, a business man before he entered politics, insists that the government could save the country $500,000,000 a year by reorganizing the federal departments and putting the system on the same efficiency basis as a private business.

Many years ago Senator Aldrich, a pioneer in this field, declared that by a similar process he could save the country $300,000,000 which meant more than half a billion does now.

President after President has shuddered at the waste evident on all sides, within the governmental organization. But executive hands have always been tied to a large extent by precedent and by regulations imposed by Congress. President and Congress alike have felt the political influence of a bureaucracy grown into a "vested interest."

President Coolidge has been urgent for reorganization. Every intelligent law-maker at Washington must see the need of it. The people everywhere would welcome it, in spite of the clamor raised by occasional politicians turned out of profitable sinecures in the process of reform.

The government admittedly has gone about as far as it has any hope of going for several years, in reducing federal taxes by the simple process of tax-cutting. Further economy must come mostly from greater efficiency and thrift in the governmental departments. Reorganization is the first step. If Congress is in earnest about saving the public money, it will do something now about that.

NO MORE SALT SPEECH.

The U. S. Navy "ain't what it used to be." Look at this bulletin, sent out recently to be read by all sailors in the fleet:

"Commander-in-chief has noted in the records of proceedings of various courts and boards that witnesses used expressions such as 'guinea pullman,' 'spud coxswain,' 'jawbone' and others. While it is highly desirable in all cases that witnesses testify in their own words, the use of slang, etc."—Well, it's considered in very bad taste if not evidence of insubordination.

Dear, dear! Morals and taste and discipline must be upheld, and a great language preserved intact, but isn't this going just a little too far in the cause of purity? Shall we have no more rolling gait in our conversation, no picturesque sea-folk delivering themselves in "round, sailor-like terms," as is traditionally their right and duty?

Why, our elegant admirals would make a pirate talk like a parson or a professor. Ichabod! The glory of salt water is departed when there is no more salt in sailor speech.

AMERICAN ART CENTERS.

Money has brought a great many European art treasures to this country in recent years. Now those treasures are bringing European collectors who hope to take many of them back to their original haunts. As a result of all this maneuvering, New York has become a great art center or art market. Some European collections are brought directly there for sale.

There are moments when a thoughtful American fears that it is the money value of these treasures, rather than their art value, that is attractive to Americans. That is only partly true. America is developing appreciation of these things along with its zest for mere ownership.

About the only one that got anything out of the anthracite strike was the mule. He got six months vacation on regular pay.

Any American, struggling with his household accounts, can sympathize with foreign governments for not balancing their budgets.

Society women have taken to wearing tuxedos. Tuxedos, no doubt, are preferable to bare backs, but it does seem as if the women ought to start wearing earrings or something to identify 'em by.

Jack's Aunt Will Not Get $5 Bill He Sent

Dead Letter Office Workers Cannot Ascertain Either Writer or Person to Whom Letter Belongs.

By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service writer.

Washington. — Jack, surname unknown, wrote an affectionate letter to "Dear Auntie."

Jack never will take any prizes in penmanship, but experts at the dead letter office did manage to dope out the "Dear Auntie" part and were able to get the general impression that Nephew Jack was fond of and solicitous concerning her.

Seemingly "Dear Auntie" was in financial straits, so Jack pinned a $5 bill to his letter.

The dead letter office has some sharks at making sense out of hard handwriting, but this specimen stumped 'em.

So Jack's uncle, Samuel, will get the former's $5 bill, after it's been held for a year, instead of "Dear Auntie." That is to say, it will be turned in to the treasury, as a present from Jack, since there's nothing else to be done with it.

Now, wouldn't you think folks would be more careful with their mail, especially the kind they put money in? Sure you would. So would the Postoffice Department. It knows they're not, however.

The dead letter office is averaging an annual turnover just now of 22,000,000 letters and 803,000 packages.

It took $125,000 cash out of last year's orphan mail. It finally found the owners of $70,000 of it, but $55,000 was hopeless and the treasury got it. This doesn't include $3,000,000 in checks, drafts and money orders.

Foreign Dealers Reap Much From Americans

During 1925 Dealers Levy Toll Of About 300 Million Dollars Over Actual Worth Of Goods.

Washington, March 13.—Foreign nations levied a toll of about 300 million dollars against American consumers in 1925 through indefensible trade restrictions, according to figures made public by the department today.

Fully half of the 618 million dollars increase in import values were due to price advances caused by measures taken to boost the price to Americans.

A majority of residents on East Third street have petitioned the board of aldermen for brick paving. This is the street on which the macadam was put but it has not proved very satisfactory.

Mayor Romasser named Dr. C. A. Ellis, W. T. Garrett, Nick Sturm, T. S. Cordill and Richard Kuehs to appraise the right-of-way necessary for the proposed opening of West Seventh street to the Normal School grounds.

R. H. Duncan, who lives in the northwest part of town, was very badly hurt Monday morning. He was hauling manure from his stable to scatter over his five acre tract of land. His horses seemed restless and he was holding them up quite tightly by the lines, when they made a plunge start forward, and he was thrown from the wagon and struck the front wheel with great force. He held to the lines and stopped the team but five ribs on his right side were fractured and he suffered injuries to his back and internally.

Want Lower Land Valuation in Audrian

Mexico, Mo., March 13.—(United Press)—Petitions for lowered assessed valuations for farm lands in Audrian County, where the present average assessment now is $46.40 an acre, have just been presented to the State Tax Commission in Jefferson City at a hearing there, based on comparative assessed valuations for surrounding counties.

For, as the petitions, addressed to the Honorable Tax Commission, says: "We, the undersigned landowners of Audrian County, and those interested in seeing an equality in land taxation, beg leave to bring to your attention the fact that the average assessed value of all land in Audrian County is $46.40 an acre, which is $11.32 higher than our neighboring county of Montgomery, and $4.40 greater than the adjoining county of Ralls.

"This also compares," the petition continues, "with Callaway at $35.70, Boone at $40.63, Randolph at $41.67, Monroe at $35.85, Pike at $40.40. From this you will note that we are assessed $4.49 higher per acre than the highest assessed county adjoining us, which we think is unjust, and which we think your honorable commission will remedy."

SAYS LEAGUE NEEDS U. S. AID

"ONLY AMERICAN ADHERENCE CAN MAKE REAL SUCCESS"

TELLS GERMAN PLAN

Maximilian Harden Contends That Geneva Body is Dominated By Great Britain

Berlin, Mar. 13.—Maximilian Harden, famous German publicist, in an exclusive interview granted to the United Press, declared today that Germany's duty as a member of the League of Nations must not be merely to plead her own cause, but to strive for the realization of her own objectives through furthering the ideals of the League.

"To go into the League only in order to use it as a soap-box," said Herr Harden, "would be not only foolhardy but fatal both for Germany and the League. The league is already unduly dominated by Great Britain, which uses it as an instrument to further her policy. Through the League, Britain has obtained a control over the affairs of the European continent that is altogether out of proportion to the few square miles and some thousand souls of Gibraltar."

"It must not be British policy, which determines the course of the League, but the desire to create a European Commonwealth—a Pan-Europe which is the only escape from the present deadlock. And unless Germany does her utmost to advocate and realize this policy, this country will merely be a puppet of the Great Powers. She will either be saved with them or go under with them.

"But this much can be said already. Regardless of the ultimate result of German's participation in the League, German membership in the League has created an inseparable link between the fate of Germany and the rest of Europe.

"Colonies? The earth has been divided up and there is no chance whatever for Germany to get real colonies through the League—colonies capable of absorbing her surplus population and providing her industries with raw material. A prestige colony—a few crocodiles, a couple of cocoanut palms and some sandhills would only serve to provide Germany's ex-governors with jobs and be a costly item in the German budget without any equivalent value whatever."

"However," concluded Herr Harden, "let me express the hope that Germany's entry into the League will sway the United States towards the same end. I know this is very improbable; yet I cannot help hoping for this action which alone would really enable the League of Nations to be what its name conveys."

MEDDLIN' IN BUSINESS

Mrs. Wise Shopper:

The Yehle Dry Goods Company invites you to attend its style show and spring opening on the second floor of the store Thursday. Two performances of the show will be held. One from three until four o'clock in the afternoon and the other from eight until nine o'clock in the evening. Models will show and display the latest and best in coats, hats, dresses and other things for spring.

The program will include vocal selections and other features. The Yehle Orchestra will furnish the music during the style display.

All in all, it's a great thing for Maryville and Nodaway County to have this spring opening and every one is cordially invited.

P. S.: Everything is being made ready. Cherry blossoms artistically entwined about the pillars and along the walls give the store a new spring dress and are charming.

My, doesn't the sunshine show every wrinkle and spot? Clothes that I thought were all right during the winter seem suddenly to look like they had been "slept in." The remedy for that particular difficulty is easy. Send your things to the Superior Cleaners. You know that clean clothing is not likely to be destroyed by moths. Clothing that needs cleaning is a bugbear to your wardrobe.

—MB—

You should see the darling little things for the wee baby at the Yehle Dry Goods Co. Hand embroidered dresses, Gertrude slips trimmed with insertion and lace. And such cozy little jackets, sweaters and capes. Also a nice showing of crepe de chine hoods and hats in tan, pink and white. Creepers and rompers for the older baby in many styles and colors.

And oh, yes! We have wash suits for boys, good looking, practical and durable. These suits come in all the leading colors and styles such as Oliver Twist, sailor suits and the two piece suit.

And too, we must not forget the little girls. Dresses from two to six years in voile and batiste in white and dainty colors. Effective panty-dresses in Peter Pan gingham. Many new styles in prints and chambray.

You will find a large assortment of kiddies toggery at Yehle's.

MY CITY
By Sara Teasdale.

I crossed the ferry at early evening,
The winter night fell black and cold;
I saw my city looming before me,
Fantastic, lovely, pierced with gold.

Towers were stretched to the height of heaven,
With lights in chains of yellow and blue—
Oh, did men love forgotten cities,
Nineveh, Carthage, as we love you?

Madame Housewife: The Price Furniture Company just has received a shipment of the very fine Congoleum Rugs. What could add more to the looks of your home for the summer than an attractive floor on your kitchen? And too, what could lessen your hard work for the hot months more than a kitchen floor easily swept?

Let me give you a few facts about these rugs. Every color design and pattern you ever imagined is there. Every size is there too, and for those who do not want the finished rugs there is the Congoleum in the roll which is sold by the yard just as any floor covering. The same variety of design may be found in the rolls sold this way as in the rugs.

These rugs are sold at the best possible price. See them.

Mrs. Rhodes announces the arrival of some perforated stamped patterns that will delight the heart of every needle worker. Some very pretty silk flowers are also among the new things too. For the woman who would be "different"—for the woman who would be distinctive—for the woman who would be unusual—I suggest Miss Pearl M. Keiflein's Hat and Dress Shop. Hats that suggest Fifth Avenue, gowns that hint of the Riviera, that is the type of clothing that Miss Keiflein is showing. An unusual advantage for Nodaway County shoppers.

Bags and scarfs that match the coat, new, and a delightful effect, clever handkerchiefs that lend charm to an outfit, jewelry that sounds the keynote of the spring mode, accessories—all stunning. And by the way, for "Exclusive But Not Expensive Hats" you never saw a better place to look. Miss Keiflein is specializing in these hats that are priced as low as five dollars. A new assortment just has arrived.

FARM GLIMPSES

BY BILLY TILSON.

George McNeil, southeast of Graham, was transacting business in the city yesterday. Mr. McNeil says he has forty-nine young pigs from six brood sows and a few more sows to farrow. He also has twenty head of young lambs and thirty ewes yet to lamb. George looks for a good year for the farmer.

James McGinniss, southwest of Maryville, was a Maryville visitor yesterday. Mr. McGinniss has a fine bunch of stock on the farm and has some in the feed lot that he is getting ready for the market.

Guy Aley, Roy Parent and Albert Neidel of the Maryville neighborhood attended the Rolph Pope sale, southeast of Skidmore, yesterday.

Earl Busby, southwest of the city, was transacting business in Maryville yesterday. Earl says he is ready for the weather to clear up so he can commence his farm work.

Roy Conrad west of Pickering is moving to a farm near Barnard where he will farm this year.

Charles Nickols and wife, southeast of Quitman, were trading among the merchants of Maryville yesterday. From the amount of sugar Charley was carrying to his car we wondered what kind of fruit was ready to preserve at this time of the year.

John McGuire and wife and John Young and wife of Pickering motored to Maryville yesterday evening and were visiting some of the merchants.

Dave Reynolds near Guilford was looking after business interests in Maryville yesterday. He says the roads were almost impassable in places.

Roads all over the county are in bad condition for travel, but if the weather clears up and the road drags over the county are put to work it will not be many days until you can get anywhere in the county. When roads are bad not only the automobile slows down but business of every kind gets down into low gear.

Alva Hunt and wife and A. H. Hunt south of Orrsburg were trading in the city yesterday.

Harve Booth and Rolla White, east of Quitman, were transacting business in Maryville yesterday.

Mrs. Ben Jones and daughter of Parnell spent today in Maryville.

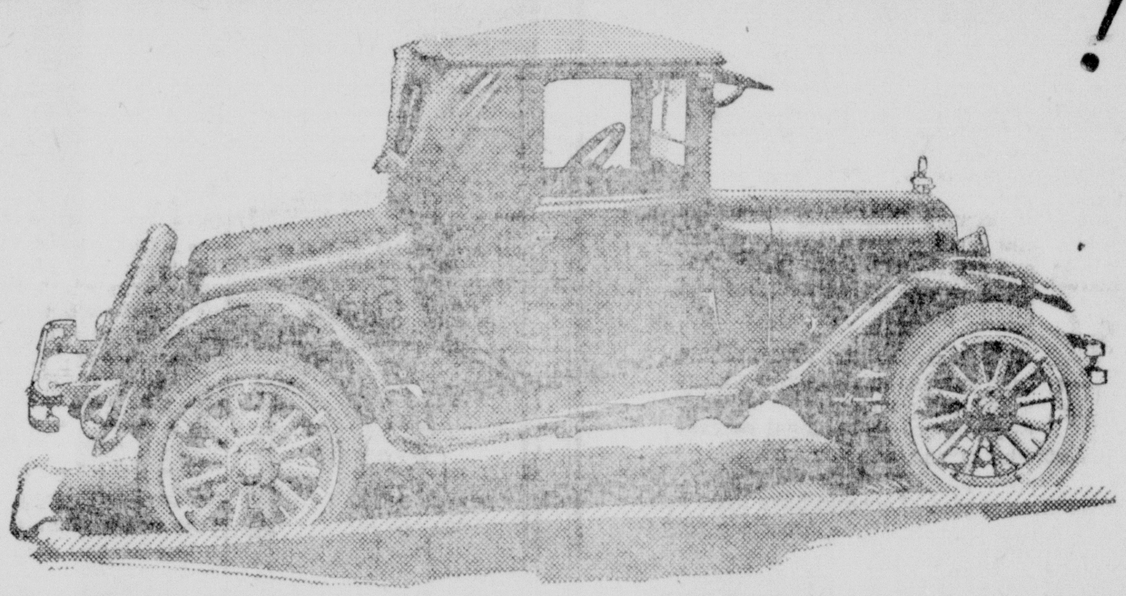
DODGE BROTHERS, INC.

Over a Cliff in this STEEL BODY without injuring the DRIVER!



A careless driver . . . A triple somersault over a cliff . . . and this is the car—a Dodge Brothers all steel safety car.

A triple somersault over a cliff with the car you see in this picture! Such was the experience of its owner, who came through the fall uninjured.

After an hour of repair work, he drove the car from Montana to Minneapolis—a more sensible driver and much wiser.

All steel construction saved his life, as it has saved many other lives in the past, and will save thousands more in the future . . . . . .

Dodge Brothers print this advertisement because they believe motorists are entitled to all steel safety and should insist upon it.

That's why Dodge Brothers introduced all steel construction more than eleven years ago—and recently announced additional all steel safety features.

The streets are swarming with 20,000,000 motor cars—millions more are on the way.

Safety is the issue. Armor yourself and your family with steel.

Dodge Brothers Motor Cars—both open and closed—are all steel in the strictest sense of the term. Steel reinforced by steel—framed, braced and buttressed by steel—with all seams solidly and permanently welded together by electricity.

Slim steel pillars replace the old bulky wooden corner posts—permitting unparalleled driving vision—a safety feature of the first importance.

Compare such bodies with the usual wood, or wood-and-metal body, and you will be astonished that every automobile builder has not adopted this advanced safety construction.

Remember, also, that safety is the watchword of Dodge Brothers construction throughout, as witnessed by Dodge Brothers exceptionally large, quick-action brakes, and the exceptional ruggedness and dependability of Dodge Brothers axles, frames, steering parts, and other vital units.

This car will continue to be a "four."

Dry Leaders Oppose Poll on Prohibition

Say Newspaper Ballots Give Untrue Opinion Of Sentiment For Present Volstead Law.

Washington, March 13.—Dry leaders sent word today to their followers to avoid newspaper polls on prohibition. Claiming these polls are one-sided opinions of "repeaters" and not indicative of real sentiment of the land the leaders warned that the dry question will be settled in an orderly fashion and that the polls are superfluous.

Wayne B. Wheeler, executive counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, said to the United Press: "Drys do not participate in straw votes because they are not official. They do not count. That's why the wets always win them."

His announcement followed a more elaborate overnight statement of the league's executive committee which declared "the friends of prohibition should not and do not as a rule participate in these unofficial polls in which a coupon cut from some newspaper is the sole qualification for voting."

The pronunciamiento added, that "the irreconcilables, or thirsty minority, are always active in casting such ballots. The majority has settled the issue and has turned to constructive work."

The executive committe pointed out that straw votes in the past on other questions failed to be an accurate barometer. The committee counseled the nation to express its opinion in the election of federal officers who will vote on such issues.

NEW WAY TO MAKE RUBBER

GERMAN MANUFACTURERS PRODUCT WITH COAL.

THREAT TO ENGLAND

If Prices Are Again Increased, Experts Predict New Article Will Be Placed On World Market.

Berlin, March 13.—Synthetic rubber, for the first time in history produced from coal, is the new and sensational achievement just announced by a German scientist, Professor Fritz Hoffman of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute of Breslau.

Experts predict that if the British rubber monopoly succeeds in raising world rubber prices still further, the new synthetic rubber will be thrown on the market. As yet, the rubber from coal is strictly on a laboratory basis in Germany, but influential industrialists are occupied with the problem of commercializing it profitably. Representatives of United States Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who has led the effort to mitigate the British rubber monopoly, have taken an interest in the new German invention and have investigated its possibilities.

Along with Hoffman, the Berlin chemical laboratory for trade and industry, has been active in developing the new synthetic process. Trustworthy reports agree that experiments hitherto conducted indicate an important future for the new product.

It will be recalled that during the war, German scientists discovered a method of manufacturing rubber from potato-starch. At that time cut off from the world's supply of plantation rubber, Germany produced 50,000 tons of rubber from potatoes.

It was necessary, however, to mix this potato rubber with revulcanized rubber in order to obtain the final product which, in itself, was generally considered unsatisfactory. Its main failing was that it had to be amalgamated with genuine rubber. Moreover, the most of potato-rubber is high—averaging about $3 a pound, whereas natural rubber even at current prices costs less than a dollar a pound.

It is stated that the new synthetic rubber, which is a by-product of coke, can be produced at a figure considerably below the cost of potato-rubber and that it excels it in quality.

The process of manufacturing rubber from coal, in all its details, is being kept a secret. This much has become known, however.

When coal is transformed into coke, it throws off certain hydrocarbon, which are created at such a high degree of heat that they assume the form of liquid gases. These gases, in turn, are cooled and in this process it is possible to distinguish and separate from the rest the basic ingredient of synthetic rubber, namely Iutylin.

Through further process, synthetic rubber is produced without adding any natural rubber whatsoever. It is possible, however, to mix plantation rubber with the rubber from coal and thereby improve the quality.

The scheme promises to prove of particular value because of the superabundance of German coal available, coupled with the acute rubber shortage, aggravated through the British monopoly.

Colon Gone Wrong

A teacher of English was sorely afflicted with conditions that seemed to mean a surgical operation. One examination after another, with the X-ray liberally applied, finally disclosed the source of the pain.

"You have no disease in your appendix," said her medical advisor, "nor elsewhere that I can discover, except in your colon."

"Dear me!" she exclaimed. "Here I have been wrestling all my life with commas and periods and semicolons, only to be told, at my age, that my colon has gone wrong."

Watch

A watch is a wonderful instrument and should be properly taken care of. It may run for years without cleaning but to permit this would be unwise to the owner. In time the oil dries and all the oiled parts will begin to wear and gum. Let a competent watchmaker examine your watch each year. It is worth it.

Around Our Town

The writer bows to John C. Stapel, editor of the Atchison County Mail. John is discovered. He has at least brought to light a future Greeley, Watterson, or perhaps a Charles Anderson Dana.

A Tarkio reporter wrote a story of a basketball game. A Tarkio team won over one from Rock Port. And here's what Editor John has to say of his "discovery:"

Shades of Otto Floto, Ed Cochrane, Sandy Griswold and all the rest of the sport writers in these parts; Whoever wrote up the recent Rock Port basketball tournament for the Tarkio Avalanche ran rampant in the use of his typewriter in his zeal at the showing made by the Tarkio Independents, who won the tournament.

See how he effervesced and bubbled merely in writing up the last contest of the series:

"Then the Rock Port Legion five took the floor against the youthful champions. Betting was at ten to one odds that the Tarkio five would not leave the floor with their scalps. But the Independents proved to be the 'Senegambian in the woodpile,' and completely routed the idols of Rock Port and hammered them mercilessly with a huge score. Waugh's team had three legs on the cup and they were not to be cheated of the fruits of victory by any team. And they were not long in clouting the Legion hopes a staggering Wallop and then Rock Port's cahmpionship dreams proved to be as nebulous as a New England fog. With six minutes left to play, Tarkio held a twenty-point lead and as the midnight hour drew near the village clock tolled the death knell of the Rock Port Legioneers and rang in the Tarkio Independents as the undisputed champions of Northwest Missouri. The final score showed that the flashes from Tarkio had again ruthlessly thrust aside all opposition and had clapped the final leg on the cup with an overwhelming 42-28 score.

The Independents are all college men who wish to retain their amateur standing so they were unable to take the $75.00 prize money offered. However, they will receive gold gasketballs as trophies of the victory."

COLLEGE HAS A CASH VALUE

RECORDS SHOW IT PAYS IN DOLLARS AND CENTS.

LIFE EARNINGS DOUBLE

Similarly, Earnings of High School Graduate Exceed Those Of Untrained Worker.

A college graduate in his lifetime earns $150,000. This is $105,000 more than the man who did not go beyond the primary grades.

A high school graduate earns $72,000 less than his college brother, but $33,000 more than the untrained worker.

And this despite the striking exceptions furnished by the senior Rockefeller, Henry Ford, and a legion of other "big money" men who never saw the inside of a college until after they had added to its endowments or were loaded with honorary degrees.

Dean Everett Lord, a world authority on labor and child welfare and founder of the college of business administration at Boston university, is sponsor for the figures.

They are compiled from the official records of the Massachusetts department of labor, which lists carefully every citizen and resident. He has also followed the careers of all graduates of Boston university.

Dr. Lord considers his conclusions thoroughly representative. Massachusetts, he says, may be used confidently as a cross-section of the entire country because of the ratio of college men and untrained workers is substantially the same as in other states and because Massachusetts has as great a variety of occupations as any other state.

"The untrained worker reaches his highest earning capacity at thirty," Dr. Lord says. "He starts at 14 or so, and after he has been at his trade fifteen years he has attained all the mechanical skill he will ever attain. He remains at the same level, as a rule, until he is 50, and then the descent begins.

"There are more untrained workers over 40 who must depend on others for support than there are those who are self-supporting.

"The untrained worker, if he lives to an old age and has a family, spends his last years in dependence."

High School Group.

Dr. Lord emphasizes that his study has considered untrained workers as a class, not as individuals. He is aware that thousands of workers have saved money through the years and accumulated moderate fortunes. He knows of the millionaires of today who have started as news boys or mill hands.

But his figures include even these fortunate persons as they include every sort of labor, technical and otherwise, that is not dependent on education.

"That untrained workers of the country make $1,200 a year at the peak of their earning power. Some make more, some less, but the average brings us to that figure."

High school graduates present a more difficult field for observation than do the untrained workers. There are no departmental records in their cases where their earnings can be computed and compared. Figures must come from other sources and Dr. Lord has picked five hundred names from the high school lists of Massachusetts. These were selected indiscriminately.

"A group of five hundred men, all 60 or more, is typical," Dr. Lord says. "The high school graduate starts earning at 18. He makes $600 a year from the start, where the untrained worker averages not more than $400.

"When the high school boy is 22 he is earning about $1,000 a year. At 30 his annual pay is $2,000. His peak is reached at 40 when he draws $2,200. He remains at this level until the end of his life.

"The high school graduate is self-supporting until death. At least, the five hundred I considered were, and investigation of younger students since has borne out that conclusion. I substituted modern salaries for young men, but they did not alter the lifetime summaries.

"The untrained man does not earn more than $2,000 in the four years he might have spent in high school and the high school man quickly makes up that amount when he starts to work."

The College Man.

Coming to the college man, Dr. Lord takes his record from Boston university, which he considers a typically American institution. It is not a rich college nor do many sons of wealthy families go there. The students are practically self-supporting.

From the records of that college Dr. Lord concludes that the average college graduate starts with an earning power of $1,000 a year at the age of 22. By the time he is 30 he is getting $2,800; at 40 he reaches the $4,000 mark. Ten years later he has passed $5,000 and at 60 the average salary is $6,000.

Almost at the start he passes the average best wage of the untrained worker; at 28 he has passed the average high school graduate's peak. His income, which depends on training and mental ability, constantly improved by practice, increases rather than diminishes through the years that follow.

The total earnings of the average untrained worker from 14 to 60 are about $45,000.

The total earnings of the average high school graduate from 18 to 60 are about $78,000.

The total earnings of the average college man from 22 to 50 are about $156,000.

"These are established facts," Dr. Lord insists. "There is no escape from them. There are college men who do not earn anything. Education cannot be grafted on a mind that will not receive it.

"The idea that this is a young man's country has been exploded. Experience has taught us that the youthful go-getters did not have the balance or the background necessary to revolutionize business as many expected to do when their short day was dawning.

"Matters have settled back to normal and the captains of industry continue to be the experienced men who have the equilibrium that nothing but years can bring."

University President Says Saturday Holidays Waste of Students' Time

Appleton, Wis., March 13.—The normal college schedule is unbusiness like and a waste of time declared President Henry M. Wriston of Lawrence College today in explaining why Lawrence will begin next year to hold classes six days a week instead of five.

Wriston said the present two holidays a week merely encouraged the encroachment of outside activities upon the student's time. The tendancy was, he said, for the holiday spirit of Saturday and Sunday to persist into the mid-week presumably devoted to studies and thus to cut down more than ever the portion of the student's time in which his attention was applied to work.

Hereafter, classes at Lawrence will extend over Saturday. Most courses will have classes scheduled Saturday as well as Monday or Wednesday or other mid-week days.

"Every college faces the problem of competing for the time of the student," said Dr. Wriston in discussing next year's program. "Amid the demands of athletics, extra-curricular activities, week-ends spent at home and the like, the five-day academic program has proved itself inadequate."

"It is perfectly obvious that from a standpoint of normal distribution of work, it is better to have one holiday instead of two. That is the first main reason why Lawrence will change to the six-day week. It will give us a better, more even, distribution of the students' work. It keeps the student in the college atmosphere a good deal more and keeps him in range of the library and the laboratory. The natural presumption is that he will spend more time in those places and experience has demonstrated the value of this.

"The second important reason for the change arises from the difficulty of arranging a program of studies. With the growth of the modern college curriculum, until it now offers a great number of elective courses, it has become increasingly difficult to escape conflicts. These conflicts keep students from taking courses they wish to take. The idea is a simple, mathematical one. We will gain a great deal of flexibility of program by the additional day. Lawrence needs it, and, adopting as we are a new cirriculum which defines the work of the student all the more sharply, it is the more necessary to avoid conflicts. The six-day week does this.

"The third factor which has caused us to adopt this new program is that it increases the efficiency of our plant. It is increased by the use of the college facilities an additional day of the week. Large sections of our plant, under the present program, lie idle two out of the seven days. This is expensive and requires more buildings to accommodate the same number of students than if we were operating on the six-day week. While we have a well-equipped plant and plans for increasing it, we want to use what we have and we want to plan new ones on the most economical basis. It is sound business. While a college is not an ordinary business, run for profit, some phases of its work ought to be managed on methods comparable to business methods and in as efficient a way as posible.

"In matter of instruction, the college cannot hope to operate on a cost accounting basis, but in manners of plant maintenance and operation, I see no reason why the college shall not be as businesslike as a factory or a store.

"The six-day weeks as Lawrence proposes to undertake it is an innovation in the midle west, but has behind it both an educational and a business motive.

"The proposal has been actively discussed on the campus, and I believe the students have caught the idea and the objective. They see its reasonableness and ready to co-operate with us."

According to the new program, all classes excepting foreign language courses will run on the three-three basis, Mondays—Wednesdays—Fridays and Tuesdays—Thursdays—Saturdays. Foreign language courses will meet more often each week.

Lawrence will be the first liberal arts college of the middle west to adopt the six-day week.

FELL BEFORE THESE WORDS

BEST SPELLERS VANQUISHED BY LIST OF 100.

ANOTHER EVEN HARDER

Only One Contestant Survives Second List Picked by Teachers College Classes.

A list of 100 words Thursday defeated the best grade and rural school spellers of seventeen Northwest Missouri counties. The same list vanquished all except four of the best which the high schools of the district could furnish.

The words were selected from current newspapers by classes and individuals in the education department of the State Teachers College, under the direction of Homer T. Phillips. The classes which helped to pick them were Miss Dora B. Smith's class in methods, Miss Grace M. Shepherd's class in principles of teaching, Miss Ruth Lowery's class in methods of teaching English, and one of the business classes of Miss Minnie B. James.

That these classes knew their business will be attested by all the pupils who took part in the contest. The best record in the grade school division was ninety-seven spelled and three missed. The winner in the rural school division spelled ninety-six and missed four. Four high school students spelled them all.

J. C. Godbey, who made the inspection, was well pleased with the work of the Ravenwood teachers, both grades and high school. The state superintendent commends the school on redecoration of the walls and the purchase of a fireproof safe. The only recommendation he made was the purchase of a map of Europe and a set of silent readers for the grammar room and a number of good pictures for the walls of the various rooms.

School Loyalty

The success of a school depends to a large extent upon the loyalty and spirit of its pupils. The writer refers to that type of loyalty which causes the pupil to keep in mind the good name and prestige of his school and to guide his conduct accordingly. The pupil that is loyal to his school will not commit acts that will lower the standing of his school in the community and the state.

The pupil that is loyal and that wants his school to rank high in the community the state will conduct himself somewhat ac follows:

1. He will prepare his lessons faithfully each day.
2. He will be studious and attentive in the classroom.
3. He will be polite and courteous at all times.
4. He will respect the desires and wishes of his teachers and make their work as pleasant as possible.
5. He will not mar and deface the school furniture or the school building.
6. He will be quiet and orderly in corridors and will not require constant watching during intermissions.
7. He will be sportsmanlike.
8. He will cultivate the best manners possible.

The pupil of the type I have been describing will be dependable. Dependableness is one of the highest qualities a boy or girl can possess. This quality manifested by a boy or girl at once wins the confidence, admiration, and the pride, of not only of his teachers, but of everyone.—Blanchard State Line Herald.

The YELLOW STUB by Ernest Lynn

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the stub of a yellow theater ticket.

JANET RAND, his daughter, breaks her engagement with BARRY COLVIN because of the "disgrace." JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Springfield where the theater is. The stub is traced to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he encounters Olga. She faints at hearing police want her for murder. Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder. Jimmy receives mysterious warnings to leave Springfield and later is attacked by two men, but escapes.

With Jimmy and Mary estranged, Church gets Mary's promise to marry him. Jimmy accuses her of marrying for money.

Jimmy and Olga, out one night, see a man they both recognize—she as the man who got the stub, he as one of his assailants. The man escapes, but they identify him by his police picture as IKE JENSEN.

Church, motoring with Mary, runs over a dog. His heartlessness kindles hatred in her and she breaks their engagement.

Olga tells Jimmy that Church, because she had refused to have anything to do with him, had caused her to lose several jobs. Jimmy realizes to lose several jobs.

Mary writes Jimmy a letter, explaining that she had broken with Church. The office boy sticks the letter in his pocket and forgets it.

Barry and Jimmy, coming from a theater, run across a street fight. One of the participants, after knocking the other down, starts to run as the crowd yells to stop him.

"One of them," said Fogarty, "was Kid Divis. He used to be a pug."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIX

There was a wild upheaval in the crowd as the man who had left his opponent unconscious on the sidewalk lowered his head and plunged through.

There were cries of "Somebody grab him!" but no one attempted it, perhaps because of that peculiar inertia that seems to afflict crowds so often, perhaps because of fear, for he was a menacing figure, even in flight.

As he broke through the outer edge of the throng and passed Jummy and Barry, perhaps some ten yards away from them, Jimmy got a glimpse of him with his disheveled hair, his battered nose and his collar and necktie askew.

Then he was gone, and when he had disappeared from sight Jimmy was assailed with the uneasy feeling that he should have tried to stop him. Something familiar about that fleeing figure raised the question whether it hadn't flashed before his eyes before. . . .

They were picking the other man up from the gutter. He was conscious, but there was a deep cut in the back of his head where it had struck the curb. A policeman arrived, ordered the crowd back and rang for a patrol wagon.

The victim, unsteady on his feet, tottered and had to be helped in by the policeman.

"Come on, Barry, said Jimmy. "It's all over. Just a street fight between a couple of toughs."

Then he saw Thomas Fogarty, surveying the scene through amused eyes. A cigar stuck at a rakish angle from his mouth. He removed it to spit on the sidewalk, and then he laughed, a quiet, contemptuous laugh.

Jimmy touched his elbow. "Hello, Mr. Fogarty."

"Why, hello, Mr. Rand. Haven't seen you for a long time. Did you see it?" He jerked a casual thumb in the direction of the patrol.

"Yes, I saw it, all right." He introduced Barry Colvin.

"Glad to know you, Mr. Colvin."

"Nice boys, weren't they?" Barry said with his ever-ready grin. "And how that little guy—the one who got away—could sock!"

"Yeah," said Fogarty. "I've seen 'em before. One of 'em was Kid Divis. He used to be a pug. Used to be a pretty good preliminary boy, but he wouldn't train."

"Good Lord!" Jimmy groaned. "Now I know where I've seen that face before. When he ran past me I knew there was something familiar looking about him, but for the life of me I couldn't place it.

"It was his nose, of course. You said he was a fighter. I can place him now. It was that broken nose of his."

He turned to Barry. "That man was one of the pair that followed me that night. He was the one who came running with the gun. What a dumbbell I am! In my hands and out again—just like that!

"If he'd had a cap on, I'd have known him in a minute, but he didn't, and his hair was all mussed and his collar torn. If I'd only had more time to think."

"What the devil are you talkin' about?" asked Fogarty through lips that were tightly clenched on his cigar. And Jimmy told him the story of the encounter he had had.

"Does this Kid Divis, as you call him, travel around with a man by the name of Ike Jensen?" he asked Fogarty.

"Sure. Regular buddies. That is, they used to be. I haven't seen Jensen for some time. By the way, do you know Ike?"

"Slightly," said Jimmy, and he was about to add why he was so anxious to find him, but he thought better of it.

Instead, he turned to Barry Colvin. "Come on, Barry, we're going down to police headquarters to see O'Day."

* * *

"Kid Divis? Sure, I know him." Lieutenant O'Day reached in the drawer where he had cached his "chewing." "Why?" he asked.

"We just saw him in a street fight," Jimmy explained.

"This man Divis," said O'Day, "was one of the first we brought in here when we first began a search for Ike Jensen. Someone tipped me off that Divis was an old associate of Jensen's, but he swore up and down, when we got him in here, that he hadn't seen Ike for weeks. Said he must have left town."

"He lied to you, then," Jimmy declared. "Divis was with Jensen the night Jensen and I had that little mixup. He was the fellow I told you about that came running up afterward with a gun."

"Good Lord!" O'Day spit savagely into the cuspidor. "And we let him go!"

"You remember, Lieutenant, I described the man as a fellow with a broken nose? We looked for his picture in the Bertillion room."

"Sure. But we didn't have it. The Kid's never had anything proved on him. But how could we know, Rand? Believe me, we got a lot of guys with broken noses when we started pulling in the boys we thought could steer us onto Ike Jensen."

Barry Colvin laughed. "I imagine so. Nice boys—all of them."

Jimmy said: "Well, I'd bet my last nickel that Kid Divis was the man who was with him that night. I wish we had him now."

"We'll look for him, Rand. I'll start right away." O'Day pressed a button.

It was early the following afternoon that Mary Lowell, not back long from luncheon, looked up to find beside her desk a stockily built young man with a pug nose, carefully parted black hair and an engaging smile.

"Miss Lowell?"

"Yes."

"I—er—" he stammered and looked down at his hat, which he was crushing in his hands in his embarrassment.

His fat cheeks turned a rosy red. "My name is Barry Colvin. I wanted to talk to you about something important. First," and he lifted his eyes to meet hers, "I hope you won't throw me out before I finish." His mouth widened in a grin as he spoke.

"Sit down, Mr. Colvin." Mary indicated a chair, and smiled, for there was something about Barry Colvin's manner that was hard to resist, a contagion in his smile, a downright friendliness, even, that in any other person might be considered impudence.

"First of all," he began, placing his hat on her desk, "let me repeat that I want to finish before you throw me out." He grinned again. "No, I'm not an insurance agent, and I'm not going to try to sell you a lot or an automobile. And I'm not a big silk stocking man from the east."

"Good heavens!" she cried in mock horror, "Then you must be a book agent."

"Wrong again," he laughed. "I'm a salesman, but not the ordinary kind. I'm what you'd call a specialist."

"No," she said, "You're a lawyer. I saw you when you were in here yesterday."

His eyes were suddenly serious as they sought hers. "I'm also a friend of Jimmy Rand," he remarked.

Then, at the quick, inquiring look and the troubled frown that his words produced, he threw up his hands, simulating despair.

"There you are, I knew it. You're getting ready to throw me out now for butting in on somebody else's business. Let me talk, will you, please? I didn't come from Jim. I'm no ambassador. If he knew I was here he'd probably give me a good licking—and he could do it, too."

Barry clasped his hands around his knee, lifting his foot several inches from the floor and gazing at it as he went on. "It's none of my business, Miss Lowell, but Jim Rand is the best friend I have in the world—and about the most stubborn individual in the world, too—"

"I wish," she interrupted, "you'd say what you have to say. I don't want to appear rude, but it's difficult for me to—"

"I know," he put in. "I'm sorry. I'll get right down to the point, Miss Lowell. I'm going to tell you why Jim Rand came to Springfield. You don't know, do you?"

"No."

"Well, Jim Rand came here because his father was murdered several weeks ago and a clew led him to Springfield."

"Murdered!" she gasped. "Oh!"

"Yes, the most mysterious thing I ever heard of. I won't go into it all, because it's a long story. We don't know who did it and we can't imagine why it was done. But poor Jim hasn't been himself, naturally, since the thing happened.

"Suspicion first pointed to a certain man in this city, but he proved an alibi. Then it pointed to a girl—a girl named Olga Maynard. Jim found her—he found her in a restaurant one night while you and he were together."

She was staring at him in wide-eyed amazement. "Then that was the—" she broke off. "Go ahead, Mr. Colvin."

"He met her the next night—in the same place. At first he tried to trap her into an admission. Then, when he told her the police were looking for her on a murder charge, she fainted dead away. Jim told me that you saw that, and that you quite naturally failed to understand it.

"Now he's convinced that the girl was absolutely innocent of any connection with the murder. In fact, she's been helping him in his search for the suspect.

"That's all, Miss Lowell. I won't bother you any longer." Barry picked up his hat. "I just had to tell you, because I thought you'd like to know and that, as far as Jim was concerned, you ought to know. He wouldn't tell you himself. He said it was too late."

Her hand fluttered to her throat. She blinked to hold back the tears. "It isn't," she whispered. "You were kind to tell me, Mr. Colvin."

When Barry saw Jimmy Rand that evening, he said: "Jim, I want you to remember this day. If you've got a notebook, mark the date in it. Some day you're going to appreciate me for what I am—a great benefactor to mankind."

Irish President Sends St. Patrick's Day Message

By W. T. Cosgrave.

President of the Irish Free State.

The festival of St. Patrick may well be celebrated with increased rejoicing both in Ireland and wherever Irishmen meet in remembrance of their patron saint and their home country.

W. T. COSGRAVE

The year which has passed since we last celebrated St. Patrick's Day has been eventful for Ireland. The London agreement removed from the path of Irish development possible causes of future difficulty. It established good relations with people of northern Ireland in a way which I believe will result in co-operative effort between all good citizens in the interests of the country as a whole.

Recognize Need of Irish Nationality.

It settled the outstanding financial question with Great Britain. Establishment and growth of the free state have produced marked change in the attitude of those who in times past opposed recognition of political freedom for Ireland. They have come to realize the need of the Irish nationality.

More important still they have come to recognize that the Irish nationality can find expression in perfect accord with other nations of the commonwealth and of the world at large. As the Irish people themselves have come to feel their faith has been vindicated and their long fight for political recognition won they have felt inspiration which it derived from creative achievement.

This inspiration will manifest itself in the future in every sphere of the nation's life. Its results will be found in industry, increased output and improved quality. It will be found in the building up of the national institutions and in seeing that our state makes contribution which it ought to the international life of the world.

Everywhere through the country practical reconstructive effort is making itself manifest. Work on the Shann electrical scheme is progressing satisfactorily. Production and handling of agricultural produce is becoming increasing scientific.

Vast improvement in roads bears witness to the development now taking place. Now that the political contest is over and the facts of our country's history no longer tend to be misrepresented and adapted to advocacy of politicians, interest of Ireland is becoming more fully recognized in connection with European history. I feel that the return of St. Patrick's Day is the proper occasion for remembering what the history of our country has been.

Most Hearty Welcome Assured.

Our most ancient monuments stand as they have stood for over three thousand years. Unaffected by victories or Roman armies and having expelled invading Danes, our ancestors handed down an unbroken tradition which has lived in the minds of our people through centuries of conflict. I would like to give to all of those who would visit our shores and particularly to all of Irish birth or extraction who would come to see for themselves the changes which are taking place in the home country, the assurance of most hearty welcome.

Believe No Reduction Cost Farm Operation

Labor Prices Rise Steadily During 1925 —Closely Related to Industrial Employment in Cities

Columbia, March 13—No material reduction in the cost of farm operations this year is anticipated in a report issued from the bureau of agricultural economics of the United States department of agriculture, and received here.

Prices of farm labor rose slightly during 1925, standing 2 or 3 per cent higher on January 1, 1926, than on January 1, 1925.

Farm economists at the Missouri college of agriculture, in a statement just issued on farm conditions, call attention to the fact that the cost of farm labor is closely related to industrial employment in the cities. "Just at present," the statement said, "city industries are at a high peak of production with all indications pointing to a continuation of such conditions at least for the first half of the year. Even if a recession in industrial employment should occur by the middle of the year, it would be too late to affect materially the farm labor conditions until late in the fall.

"The prices of most lines of farm machinery now are practically the same as a year ago. In some cases, wholesale prices at the end of 1925 were identical with those at the beginning of the year, and it seems that no material changes are to be expected.

"Prices of the more important building materials were slightly higher in October, 1925 than at the beginning of 1925. The wholesale price of lumber has been tending upward for the past several months and the building activity in prospect will doubtless prevent any decline at least during the next few months.

"In general, it sems the cost of farm equipment and upkeep will remain at the present comparatively stable level so long as industrial conditions and the purchasing power of the farmers do not change materially."

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, March 13.—Grain prices closed higher on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

Wheat closed fractionally higher. This grain advanced during the early part of the session on the strength of the higher Liverpool opening and the firmness at Winnipeg. However, recessions from the opening began to be felt as the session advanced. These resulted when eastern houses began to unload. For a time local dealers followed the easterners in selling but later Chicago buyers jumped in, checking the inroads made by unloaders. These pit men failed to follow the tendency of other dealers inclined to sell out before a possible break. The undertone while apparently strong, is in reality unsteady. This is due to the obvious susceptibility of the Chicago market to price fluctuations. Seaboard dispatches show exports quiet. One unconfirmed report has it that 50,000 bushels of No. 2 hard wheat was sold out of the Chicago stocks over night. If confirmed, this will leave 140,000 bushels of contract wheat in the local market, the smallest amount in many years.

Corn closed fractionally higher. The market in this grain apparently varies in sympathy with wheat. Trading was light. The undertone in this pit is heavy.

Oats closed unchanged in all deliveries. An early sell-out in a quiet market featured this pit.

Provisions closed unchanged.

Egg Receipts Lighter.

Receipts of eggs at Chicago, New York, Boston, and Philadelphia so far this week are somewhat lighter than the corresponding week last year. Production has slackened in the Northern States, due to unfavorable weather conditions, and receipts have been affected by the fact that incubators are being filled earlier this year than usual.

The inside quotation at Chicago on fresh firsts today is unchanged with prices ruling on March 5. At New York the market is practically unchanged from a week ago.

The into-storage movement has been very light during the week under review and less eggs have been stored as compared with the same period last year.

The movement of live poultry has been well within trade requirements with a little pressure to sell live fowl at New York after last Thursday. Buyers are beginning to accumulate fowl to supply the demand for the first Jewish Holiday, which occurs March 30 and 31. The best demand occurs a few days prior to the holiday, so stock will arrive in New York from March 22 to 26 and an increased movement of fowl is expected from producers the week ending March 15.

There is a very satisfactory movement of dressed poultry and the out-of-storage movement for the week under review is heavier than the same week in 1925. There is every indication that with a good demand in the next two or three weeks, prices will hold on a satisfactory level.

The amount of butter manufactured is greater than at this period last year. The American Association of Creamery Butter Manufacturers report a 20 per cent increase in the amount manufactured the week ending March 6. There is no particular surplus noted anywhere and it is quite remarkable that this excess production is going into consumption at the present price level.

Another matter of interest to the producers is the advance in duty on butter from 8 to 12 cents, which will be effective April 6. This will have a tendency to reduce the importations of butter.

No change has been made in the duty on cream, but a Resolution has been introduced in the Senate requiring investigation as to the cost of production of cream in the U. S. and abroad.

Today, the New York market on 92 score Extras is quoted ½ cent higher and at Chicago, 90 score Standards ¾ cent higher, and 92 score Extras a cent higher than quotations prevailing on March 5.

EIGHT BEARCATS GO TO NATIONAL MEET MONDAY.

ONLY MO. COLLEGE IN Excess of Entries Makes Elimination Contests Necessary Today And Monday Morning.

The State Teachers College Bearcats have been paired against the Young Men's Institute of San Francisco in their first game in the National A. A. U. basketball tournament at Convention Hall in Kansas City next week.

The Y. M. I. team has been an entrant in the national tourney for several years. It has never been a finalist, but always it has gone through more than one round of play.

This will be the first time that a Maryville team has entered the tournament. Coach H. Frank Lawrence will take eight players to Kansas City with him. They will likely leave Monday morning. Mr. Lawrence has not yet received notice of the time of his first game, and this will determine when he will take his team to Kansas City.

The limit for teams in the national tourney is thirty-two. There were many more than that number of entries, so preliminaries are being played today and will continue Monday morning to cut the number down to thirty-two. The Maryville team does not have to compete in these elimination games.

Coach Lawrence will take the following men to Kansas City: Burks, Ungles, Aldrich, Berst, Hedges, Blomfield, Joy and O'Banion.

The St. Joseph Hillyards will meet the Clark the Hatter team champions of Kansas City, in their first game. The K. C. A. C. will meet the Pratt Book Store team of Denver in their first game.

were leading, 14 to 7. At three quarters they had the long end of a 16-10 score.

McKee, Maryville forward was ill last night and did not start the game. He was substituted for Gibson when Chillicothe went into the lead, but it was quite noticeable that he was not well.

"Fox" Kissinger, the Maryville captain failed to shine brilliantly in the scoring department again last night. Time and again he was either too near or too far on plays under the basket. At center, he was not succesful in jumping and many times lost the tip-off to a shorter opponent.

"Kenny" Swinford led the Maryville scoring with 9 points. He also played a nice defensive game.

Atkins led the Chillicothe scoring with 6 points. Four of these came on free throws, however. The Hornet forward, who was said to be so "hot," failed to show class last night. Many times he shot, but most of his flips were of the "hope" variety.

Cameron and Burlington Junction started off their Class A semi-final game in lively fashion. It was a battle for the first quarter, which ended with a 4-4 score. Cameron opened up in the second quarter and at half time, was leading, 15 to 6.

Offutt, Cameron forward, was Burlington Junction's denouement. Six times he rang the bell for a field goal, and his defensive work was above par. Mudders, the Cameron captain, also played a nice game on the defense.

Plummer, Burlington Junction center, led his team in scoring, netting 6 points.

The better team won. Burlington had a fast, scrappy team, but Cameron knew more basketball and won because she could fathom the Junction defense and could break more rapidly.

Rosendale had little difficulty getting into Class B finals. Holt furnished little opposition for the Andrew County boys, who won, 36 to 11. At the half, Rosendale was leading 22 to 5. The score at the end of the first quarter was 12 to 3.

Mackey, Rosendale center, played a regular game. He was taken out in the last half on personal fouls, but before this he had totaled 11 of his team's points. He played the floor well and worked satisfactorily under the basket.

G. Max, Rosendale guard, was another star of the game.

Would Make Currency About One-Third Less

Treasury Department Committee Considers Submitting Bill Along That Line Into Congress.

Washington, Mar. 13.—Substitution of a bill about two-thirds the size of the present currency is under consideration by a special Treasury Department committee, according to Herbert D. Brown, Chief of the Bureau of Efficiency.

Brown said the committee was studying the possibility of issuing currency about the same size as that used in the Philippine Islands, in place of that now in circulation.

The average life of government money, according to Brown, has increased to 10 months of late. About a year ago it averaged seven months.

"The life of notes of smaller denominations," said Brown, "is very much shorter than those of larger denominations because they are in more active use. A hundred dollar bill would last almost indefinitely, because it has less use."

Because of inferior paper and inability of chemicals to stand up, Brown said the Treasury had abandoned the practice of washing currency.

The smoothest thing on wheels

This is the characterization most frequently applied to the Willys-Knight Great Six by its swiftly mounting number of delighted owners. And it aptly sums up this car's truly marvelous performance-ability.

No other automobile has the super-power and speed, the smoothness and silent running qualities of the Willys-Knight Great Six. No other steers so easily or rides so comfortably.

The patented Knight sleeve-valve engine, the only known motor-car engine that improves with use—and a steering-mechanism equipped with 8 Timken bearings, more than any other car built—these are two major superiorities, exclusive with the Willys-Knight, that contribute immeasurably to the Willys-Knight owner's advantage.
